

NOTEBOOKING

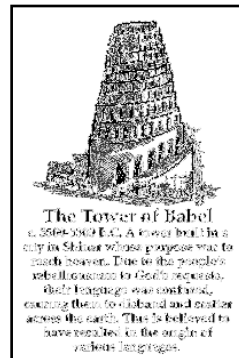

A Great Way to Energize Your Curriculum

Feel free to email me with questions

mjmudry@sbcglobal.net

Jean Mudry

Resources I Use with Templates

History Through the Ages Timeline Figures

This program allows you to copy and paste the timeline figures directly into your document. You can also manipulate the size of the figures, which is very helpful when creating templates. Each figure is hand drawn and includes a short description of the person or event. You can also purchase their History Through the Ages timeline book that holds all their figures. For more info, visit homeschoolinthewoods.com.

Knowledge Quest Blackline Maps of World History

These maps come on a CD that allows you to print out black line maps based on historically correct boundaries. Visit knowledgequestmaps.com for more information.

Uncle Josh's Outline Maps CD-ROM

This is another CD that allows you to print out black line maps similar to Knowledge Quest. However, these maps are based on current geographical boundaries. Go to geomatters.com or rainbowresource.com for more information.

Color the Classics

I use this curriculum for our famous composer notebooks. It comes with a short biography on each featured artist, coloring pages to go along with the biography, as well as a CD with the composers' music. Visit colorthe classics.com for more information.

Helpful Websites

notebookingpages.com (My absolute FAVORITE, she's done all the work for you at very reasonable prices)

knowledgeboxcentral.com (templates for lapbooks)

jeanniefulbright.com

apologia.com

knowledgeboxcentral.com

holdthatthought.com

notebookingnook.blogspot.com

familymanweb.com (For homeschool dads)

cindy rushton.com (Great encouragement for homeschool moms)

momtomomradioshow (also by Cindy Rushton)

